Outline

Mr. Westermann will talk about the entrepreneurial journey of bringing a complex technology from the laboratory to the market. He will talk about the German research transfer environment and existing support structures. Finally, he will touch upon challenges such as intellectual property, financing, pitching and building an interdisciplinary team.

About DeepEn & Guest speaker

Mr. Patrick Westermann

In charge of Business Development at DeepEn

DeepEn is a research transfer start-up from Leibniz-Institute of Photonic Technology in Jena, Germany. Its goal is to develop the thinnest imaging instruments in the world. These hair-thin endoscopes will enable neuroscientists and doctors to obtain high-resolution images from deep inside the living body with minimal tissue damages.

Mr. Westermann holds a M.Sc. in International Management and is responsible for Business Development and Business Planning at DeepEn.
